Membandingkan Jurnal

1 Analitik

Klik tab "Compare Journal" pada halaman utama untuk memulai.

2 Mencari Jurnal

Cari dengan memasukkan bagian nama jurnal kandidat di kotak "Search".

3 Indeks Evaluasi

Membandingkan dan mengevaluasi jurnal dari berbagai perspektif.

Peringkat Jurnal SCImago (SCImago Journal Rank, SJR): Menggunakan algoritme yang serupa dengan yang digunakan untuk Google® PageRank, indeks metrik bergengsi ini memberikan bobot pada kutipan menurut kualitas jurnal kutipan dan memungkinkan perbandingan antar bidang.

Dampak Per Publikasi (Impact per Publication, IPP): IPP mengukur rasio kutipan dalam setahun terhadap makalah ilmiah yang diterbitkan dalam tiga tahun sebelumnya, dibagi dengan jumlah makalah ilmiah yang diterbitkan pada tahun yang sama.

Dampak Per Makalah yang Dinormalkan Sumber (Source Normalized Impact per Paper, SNIP): Mempertimbangkan kemudahan kutipan menurut bidang, indeks ini menyejajarkan rasio kutipan dan memungkinkan perbandingan antar jurnal di bidang yang berbeda.

Kutipan: Total jumlah kutipan yang diterima jurnal per tahun.

Dokumen: Total jumlah artikel yang diterbitkan oleh jurnal per tahun.

% Tidak Dikutip: Persentase artikel yang diterbitkan tiap tahun yang belum dikutip sebelumnya.

% Ulasan: Persentase artikel dalam jurnal yang dikategorikan sebagai review type article (artikel jenis ulasan).

4 Memilih Jurnal

Klik jurnal yang ingin Anda bandingkan dari hasil pencarian atau drag&drop ke frame sebelah kanan. Anda dapat memilih hingga 10 judul.

Memulai Pencarian Penulis & Profil Penulis

Scopus memungkinkan Anda menganalisis metrik kutipan (Citation Metrics) para penulis serta artikel khusus oleh seorang penulis. Dari ID penulis, Anda dapat menampilkan semua artikel oleh penulis tersebut, dokumen yang dikutip penulis, indeks h, dan lainnya.

1 Pencarian Penulis

Pilih tab “Author Search” untuk mencari menurut nama penulis.

2 Nama Penulis

Masukkan nama keluarga dan inisial atau nama kecil penulis di bidang “Author” dan daftar penulis yang kemungkinan cocok akan ditampilkan. Anda juga dapat mencari dalam kombinasi dengan afiliasinya contohnya universitas tempat dimana penulis berafiliasi.

3 ID ORCID

Anda dapat mencari penulis dengan menggunakan ID ORCID dari penulis tersebut.

4 Menampilkan Profil Penulis

Klik nama penulis untuk melihat profil penulis. Arahkan mouse ke nama penulis, Maka judul terakhir dan Dokumen karangan penulis ini akan muncul.

The screenshot shows the Scopus search interface with the 'Author search' tab selected. The search bar contains 'Author Last Name: Smit'. Below the search bar, there is an 'ORCID ID...' field containing '0009-0002-1108-3360'. Other search fields include 'Affiliation...', 'Subject Areas' (with 'Life Sciences' and 'Health Sciences' checked), and subject filters for 'Physical Sciences' and 'Social Sciences & Humanities'.

The screenshot shows the search results for the query 'looker'. The results page displays 32 of 67 author results. The first result is for 'Looker, Anne C.', with a detailed profile including her name, a list of publications, and her affiliation with the National Center for Health Statistics, Hyattsville, United States. Other search results listed include 'Looker, Anne G.', 'Looker, Anne', and 'Looker, A.'

THE THOMSON REUTERS JOURNAL SELECTION PROCESS

Thomson Reuters is committed to providing comprehensive coverage of the world's most important and influential journals to meet its subscribers' current awareness and retrospective information retrieval needs. Today *Web of Science*SM covers nearly 12,000 international and regional journals and book series in every area of the natural sciences, social sciences, and arts and humanities.

But comprehensive does not necessarily mean all-inclusive.¹

WHY BE SELECTIVE?*

It would appear that to be comprehensive, an index of scientific journal literature might be expected to cover all the scientific journals published. This approach would be not only impractical economically, but as analyses of the scientific literature have shown, unnecessary. It has been demonstrated that a relatively small number of journals publish the bulk of significant scientific results. This principle is often referred to as Bradford's Law.²

In the mid-1930's, S.C. Bradford realized that the core literature for any given scientific discipline was composed of fewer than 1,000 journals. Of these 1,000 journals, there are relatively few with a very strong relevance to the given topic, whereas there are many with a weaker relevance to it. Those with a weak relevance to the given discipline or topic,

1. Basic Journal Standards: Publishing Standards

(Timeliness of Publications; Editorial Conventions; English Bibliographic; Peer Review)

2. Editorial Content:

Will this journal enrich the database or is the subject already well covered?; Will this journal complement coverage in a specific category?; How does this journal compare with covered journals of similar editorial contents?

3. International Diversity of Authorship:

Do the contributing authors, journal's Editors, and editorial advisory board members represent the international research community?; Does the journal reflect the global context of scholarly research?

4. Citation Analysis:

Capture all cited references to every article in covered journals and to articles in journals not covered; Expert use of citation data help identify influential and useful journal and impact

Below the sidebar is the 'ELECTRONIC JOURNAL SUBMISSION FORM' section, which contains a list of minimum criteria for journal submission, a link to the 'Journal Selection Process Essay', and a confirmation message. A blue 'OK' button is at the bottom.

Thomson Reuters evaluates journals that meet the following minimum criteria:

- The journal publishes peer reviewed content.
- The journal has an ISSN registered with the ISSN International Centre. For more information, visit the ISSN International Centre.
- The journal should include English language bibliographic information, including
 - Titles
 - Abstracts
 - Keywords
 - Cited references
- The journal should include references in Roman script.

For more information about the editorial process, visit the Journal Selection Process Essay.

By clicking "OK", you confirm that the journal meets these criteria.

The qualifiers for the DOAJ Seal

DOAJ promotes best practice in Open Access publishing. To highlight journals that adhere to best practices, we have created the DOAJ Seal for Open Access Journals.

The qualifiers for the Seal highlight features related to accessibility, openness, discoverability, reuse and author rights and have nothing to do with the scholarly quality of the papers published.

To qualify for the Seal the journal must:

1. have an archival arrangement in place with an external party (Question 25). 'No policy in place' does not qualify for the Seal.
2. provide permanent identifiers in the papers published (Question 28). 'None' does not qualify for the Seal.
3. provide article level metadata to DOAJ (Question 29). 'No' or failure to provide metadata within 3 months do not qualify for the Seal.
4. embed machine-readable CC licensing information in article level metadata (Question 45). 'No' does not qualify for the Seal.
5. allow reuse and remixing of content in accordance with a CC BY, CC BY-SA or CC BY-NC license (Question 47). If CC BY-ND, CC BY-NC-ND, 'No' or 'Other' is selected the journal does not qualify for the Seal.
6. have a deposit policy registered in a deposit policy directory. (Question 51) 'No' does not qualify for the Seal.
7. allow the author to hold the copyright without restrictions. (Question 52) 'No' does not qualify for the Seal.

One cannot apply for the Seal. The Seal is awarded based on the information provided in the application. If you have any questions about any of the qualifiers, contact us.

10) Contact's email address *

11) Confirm contact's email address *

12) In which country is the publisher of the journal based? *

Select the country where the publishing company carries out its business activities. Addresses registered via a registered agent are not allowed.

13) Does the journal have article processing charges (APCs)? *

14) Enter the URL where this information can be found *

15) Does the journal have article submission charges? *

16) Enter the URL where this information can be found *

17) How many research and review articles did the journal publish in the last calendar year? *

Google Scholar

<https://scholar.google.com/intl/en/scholar/inclusion.html>

The screenshot shows the 'Inclusion' section of the Google Scholar website. The top navigation bar includes links for About, Search, Citations, Inclusion (which is highlighted in blue), Metrics, Publishers, and Libraries, along with a 'Search Scholar' button. On the left, a sidebar lists links for Overview, Content, Crawl, Indexing, Troubleshooting, and Questions. The main content area is titled 'Inclusion Guidelines for Webmasters'. It explains the indexing process for scholarly articles and provides specific instructions for individual authors, university repositories, and journal publishers.

Inclusion Guidelines for Webmasters

This documentation describes the technology behind indexing of websites with scholarly articles in Google Scholar. It's written for webmasters who would like their papers included in Google Scholar search results. Detailed technical information is helpful if you're trying to fix an error in indexing of your own website, or you need to make sure that your article hosting product is compatible with Google and Google Scholar search services.

Individual Authors

If you're an individual author, it works best to simply upload your paper to your website, e.g., www.example.edu/~professor/jpdr2009.pdf, and add a link to it on your publications page, such as www.example.edu/~professor/publications.html. Make sure that:

- a. the full text of your paper is in a PDF file that ends with ".pdf",
- b. the title of the paper appears in a large font on top of the first page,
- c. the authors of the paper are listed right below the title on a separate line, and
- d. there's a bibliography section titled, e.g., "References" or "Bibliography" at the end.

That's it! Our search robots should normally find your paper and include it in Google Scholar within several weeks.

If it doesn't work, you could either (1) read more detailed technical guidelines in this documentation or (2) check if your local institutional repository is already configured for indexing in Google Scholar, and upload your papers there.

University Repositories

If you're a university repository, we recommend that you use the latest version of Eprints (eprints.org), Digital Commons (digitalcommons.bepress.com), or DSpace (dspace.org) software to host your papers.

If you use a less common hosting product or service, or an older version of these, please read this entire documentation and make sure that your website meets our technical guidelines.

Journal Publishers

If you publish a small number of journals, consider using one of the established journal hosting services, e.g., Atypon and Highwire. Aggregators that host many journals on a single website, such as JSTOR or SciELO, often work too, but please check with your aggregator to make sure that they support full-text indexing in Google Scholar. Alternatively, if you have the

Public Islam in Southeast Asia: Late Modernity, Resurgent Religion, and Muslim Politics

Abstract: The article focuses on the study of public Islam in Southeast Asia, the world's most populous Islamic region. More specifically, it examines "late modernity" and its relation to the unprecedented growth of Islam, the Islamic resurgence, and Muslim politics in the public domains of modern Southeast Asia, particularly in Indonesia and the Philippines. It also examines the history of Islam's resurgence, the underlying factors driving the region's Islamic boom, and the implications of the aforementioned phenomena on democracy, civil co-existence, and social relations among ethno-religious groups in these areas. Using Southeast Asia as a case of public Islam, the article's main purpose is to revisit the strength of classic modernization and secularization theories that forecasted the decline, or even the death, of religion from global politics and public spheres. Finally, the article also aims to provide insights on the local dynamics and plurality of public Islam in Southeast Asia.

Keywords: public Islam, modernity, fundamentalism, religious resurgence, Muslim politics, Southeast Asia, the Philippines, Indonesia

Al-Jam'iah: Journal of Islamic Studies

Al-Jam'iah, a journal of Islamic Studies published by Al-Jam'iah Research Centre of State Islamic University Sunan Kalijaga Yogyakarta since 1962, can be said as the oldest academic journal dealing with the theme in Southeast Asia.

The subject covers text and historical issues with various perspectives: law, philosophy, mysticism, history, art, theology, and many more. In the past, the journal has served as a scholarly forum for the lecturers and professors at the State Institute of Islamic Studies. However, due to the later development with a broader readership, the journal has successfully invited scholars and researchers outside the Institute to contribute.

Thus, Indonesian and non-Indonesian scholars have enriched the studies published in the journal. Although not from the beginning Al-Jam'iah presents highly qualified scholarly articles, improvement—in terms format, style, and academic quality—never ceases. Now with articles written in Arabic and English and with the fair procedure of peer-review, Al-Jam'iah continues publishing researches and studies pertinent to Islamic studies from various fields and approaches.

Al-Jam'iah, published twice a year, always places Islam and Muslim in the central focus of academic inquiry and invites any comprehensive observation of Islam as a theological belief and a system of society and Muslims as those who practice the religion with their many facets. This journal, serving as a forum for the study of Islam in Indonesia and other parts of the world within its local and challenging global context, supports focused studies of particular theme and interdisciplinary studies. Al-Jam'iah has become a medium of diffusion and exchange of ideas and research findings, so much so that researchers, writers, and readers from various traditions of learning have interacted in the scholarly manner.
